

A

Lou Gehrig/Jackie Robinson Essay

Lou Gehrig and Jackie Robinson were both people who revolutionized the sport of baseball.

They were born in different times and different places. Lou was born in 1903 in New York City. Jackie, on the other hand, was born in 1919 in Cairo, Georgia. Lou Gehrig had two parents, Heinrich and Christina, but Jackie Robinson never knew who his father was and was raised by a single mother, Mallie Robinson. Lou Gehrig and Jackie Robinson both were married. Lou had no kids, while Jackie had three kids. They both lived in poverty as they grew up. They both went to college and got a full education. Lou went to the University of Columbia, while Jackie went to UCLA in Pasadena.

Lou played for the Yankees, while Jackie played for the Brooklyn Dodgers. Lou played shortstop and outfield, along with first base, while Jackie mainly played second base and other infield positions. Lou's number was four and Jackie's number was forty-two.

Jackie was different because of his race until people learned to accept him, while Lou fit in, besides the fact that people were avoiding him because of his disease. Lou was sensitive and brave, while Jackie was brave and successful. Lou Gehrig died at a very young age because of a rare disease that involved the involuntary control of muscles. Jackie died from a complication of Diabetes. Lou died on June 2, 1941, in Riverdale, New York, while Jackie died on Oct. 24, 1972, in Stamford, Connecticut. Lou died when he was 37, while Jackie died when he was 53.

Lou Gehrig and Jackie Robinson had changed the game of baseball.

B

Two Awesome Baseball Players

Lou and Jackie are the number one players for me, They have many differences and likeness.

Lou Gehrig was born on June 19, 1903 in New York City, while Jackie was born on Jan 31, 1919, in Conita, Georgia. Lou was raised by his parents Christina and Heinrich and had no siblings. On the other hand; Jackie was raised by his mom Mollie. He had 4 siblings. Lou had a wife named Eleanor and had no children, while Jackie had a wife named Rach and had 3 children, Sharon, David, and Jackie Jr.

Jackie and Lou^b Both went to college but went to different ones. Lou went to Columbia to get a degree on engineering. Jackie went for college in the UCLF. Because of that they got to be professional players, although they have different teams and team shirt numbers. Lou's team is The New York Yankees while Jackie's is The Brooklyn Dodgers. Jackie's team shirt number is #42, Lou's team shirt number is #4.

They also had some likeness one is they both had a wife. And Both had really good hearts. They played hard. They never gave up. They Lou was tough because he never got down for what ever came. And Jackie was brave because he stood up for every thing. Lou was a great man because he loved every body in his family. Jackie was a great sportsman because he always respected people on his team although they mistreated him.